After completing a science degree (majoring in biochemistry) at the University of Melbourne and a PhD at the University of Sydney, I completed my medical degree, also at the University of Sydney. I subsequently undertook specialist training in Obstetrics & Gynaecology at Royal North Shore Hospital including a secondment in the United Kingdom at Odstock Hospital, Salisbury. After becoming a Fellow of the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (RANZCOG), I undertook two years of advanced training in minimally invasive gynaecological surgery at Sydney's Royal Hospital for Women.

The focus of my practice is divided fairly evenly between obstetrics & gynaecology. I deliver babies at the Northern Beaches Hospital, Mater Hospital, and North Shore Private Hospital & Royal North Shore Hospital where I am a Visiting Medical Officer (VMO). I am also a VMO in advanced gynaecological endoscopic surgery at Northern Beaches Hospital, Royal Hospital for Women in Randwick as well as the aforementioned hospitals.
