Dr Victoria Bennett is a consultant obstetrician and gynaecologist working in Sydney's Northern Beaches and Upper North Shore specialising in pregnancy and women's health care. She holds public appointments at both Hornsby-Ku-Ring-Gai Hospital and Northern Beaches Hospital.

She obtained her medical degree through the University of St Andrews and the University of Manchester, UK and undertook Obstetric and Gynaecology specialty training in Sydney and Melbourne.

Victoria provides evidence based patient centred care with a calm, down-to-earth approach. She has a passion for educating women to improve maternal and child health with special interests in perinatal mental health, menstrual disorders and colposcopy.

She is involved in education for medical students at Macquarie University and the University of Sydney and educates psychologists for the Gidget Foundation.
